

flat-pack

Flat-pack or self assemble design solutions have perhaps suffered in the hands of brands such as IKEA and Argos. Aside from the cost saving advantages of distributing flat-pack objects, the experience and skills developed in a user by building their own furniture should surely be celebrated more. The opportunity to participate in the making process allows the consumer to gain an understanding of how something is made, perhaps how to repair the item in the future and gives scope for customisation. {March 2012}
